A claim has been filed in the High Court against British private equity and pensions businessman Edi Truell.

The claim against the Pension SuperFund (PSF) founder was brought by one of the venture's former creditors, EJF Funding DAC, part of US asset manager EJF Capital, on 20 August.

Truell wound the business down in 2023, blaming the regulator, government and the insurance sector for making his business model "uninvestable" after the consolidator had made three attempts at gaining regulatory approval. Since its closure, the Pension Schemes Act has introduced a statutory framework for defined benefit (DB) superfunds.

In March 2025, EJF claimed in a statutory demand it was owed over £20m after Pension Superfund Capital Holdings defaulted on its loan and interest payments. In a judgment, the Royal Court of Guernsey described this entity as "in essence a holding company" within the PSF group.

The holding company had applied for an administration order in March, but EJF applied for the compulsory liquidation of the business in April and the Guernsey court ordered the company's wind-up in May of that year.

PSF was launched by Truell in 2018, backed by around £500m of capital. It aimed to consolidate defined benefit scheme liabilities into a large, pooled vehicle to pay member benefits in perpetuity, rather than acting a bridge to a full insurance buyout.

Truell has a long association with the pensions sector, most notably founding Pension Insurance Corporation with his brother in 2006, stepping down as chief executive in 2009 and from the insurer's board in 2012 following a £400m investment from the Luxembourg-based fund Reinet.

He also chaired the London Pensions Fund Authority from 2012 to 2015 before leaving to advise the then Mayor of London, Boris Johnson, on pensions and investments – including work that led the establishment of GLIL Infrastructure and the Local Pensions Partnership pool. He also launched Pension SuperHaven in 2024.

Edi Truell was approached and declined to comment. EJJ Funding DAC and its solicitors Norton Rose Fulbright had not responded to requests for comment at the time of publication.
